Creoles of South Louisiana: Three Centuries Strong

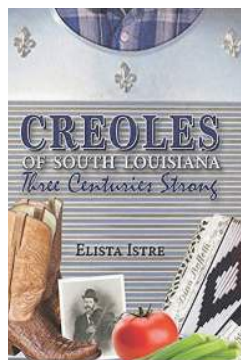

Book presentation with author and historian Elista Istre, Ph.D.

Thurs, Sept. 28 | 6:00-7:30 PM | Main Library | All Ages

Is Creole a type of food? A language? A group of people? A culture? Long before Acadian exiles reached the shores of the Bayou State, Creoles established themselves in South Louisiana. Boasting a mélange of African, European, and North American roots, Creoles converged on Louisiana's prairies and created their own distinct cuisine, language, and musical style.

In this presentation, author and historian, Dr. Elista Istre invites her audience to enter the Creole world - a place where cooks tempt taste buds with gumbo and crawfish, storytellers mesmerize young and old with tales tied to three continents, and musicians and dancers pulsate to the rhythms of accordians and rubboards. Her presentation will shed light on various historical topics, such as the evolution of the term "Creole" and the efforts to preserve Creole heritage. The presentation will end with a Q&A session. There will also be a hands-on activity available for kids.

Dr. Elista Istre, founder and director of Belle Heritage, LLC, is a historian with Louisiana roots that run deep. She served as historical consultant and assistant director for the documentary film First Cousins: Cajun and Creole Music in South Louisiana and authored the book Creoles of South Louisiana: Three Centuries Strong.
